

A Challenge to the Sector for an Evidence-Driven Future

How EdTech Can Be Used to Help Address the Global Learning Crisis

Five questions we are obsessed with asking and answering

1. Will this use of technology lead to a sustained impact on learning outcomes?
2. Will this use of technology work for the most marginalised children and enhance equity?
3. Will this use of technology be feasible to scale in a cost-effective manner that is affordable for the context?
4. Will this use of technology be effective in the specific implementation context?
5. Will this use of technology align with government priorities and lead to the strengthening of national education systems?
